

HR HEALTH CHECK

Self Assessment for business leaders

How would you rate your organisation's recruitment and interview practices?

This is not a strong point for our business

We have consistent, fair and transparent processes, with high acceptance rates

Interviews are an opportunity for both the business and candidate to see if they are a good fit together. It's important to remember that during an interview, you are also selling your business to candidates, and that compliance measures are important for transparency, performance management and freedom of information (FOI) purposes.

Select all options from the below that apply to your interview process.

- ☐ All applicants are asked the same questions
- ☐ Questions are behaviour based, and related directly to the role requirements
- ☐ Applicants are assessed against the essential qualifications, skills, experience and attributes
- ☐ Unsuccessful applicants that were not interviewed receive an email response thanking them for their application
- ☐ Unsuccessful shortlisted applicants who were interviewed receive a phone call
- ☐ We are aware of what questions should and should not be asked at interview
- ☐ When contacting referees, permission is sought regarding applicant access to their feedback
- ☐ Documentation is collected from all interviewers and kept on file after any interview process
